Breckinridge and the Ministers— Repentance With a Ven- geance.

After Col. Breckinridge had given his Lexington address to the newspapers, he found it necessary to change some matter and interpolate other.

The most sensational matter introduced was that criticising the action of the Ministerial Union of Lexington, for passing the articles admonishing the good people of the district not to vote for him. On this subject he said:

"In the sick chamber of my wife I read the telegraphic report that the Ministerial Union of Lexington had unanimously passed certain resolutions denouncing me, and advising the voters of the Democratic party of this district not to nominate me. As I came home I saw these resolutions in the papers. I know not who were present of the ministers of Lexington when this action was taken; nor do I care what their politics are. I recognize the right of ministers, citizens, gentlemen and politicians to participate in any political movement, to freely express their opinions, to oppose me if they desire, upon whatever grounds may be to them satisfactory.

"I recognize that good men should disapprove of wrong-doing, and in a proper mode express this disapprobation. I submit myself to the censure of any one who may feel called upon, by his conscience or his sense of duty, to publicly disapprove of what I may have done; but I deny, in the presence of this audience and in the presence of God, that right of these ministers, as ministers, in their ministerial and official characters, speaking as ambassadors of Jesus Christ, as an organized body of ministers, called upon to preach the gospel of the crucified Savior, who died for the sins of just such men as I, to assume to speak in a political matter, to promulgate in a political decree and to declare as a ministerial real act, their judgment of what a political party should do.

"I challenge them before this people among whom they and I live, and before God at whose bar we all must appear to defend this usurpation of that dread name and this assumption of Divine authority, if they have a right to say whom the Democratic party shall not nominate. If they have that right, then they have an equal right, as a matter of conscience and of ministerial action, to declare who it shall nominate. They are not called for such a purpose; they are not given the headship of churches for such usurpation.

"I further charge them with having done this act in the most unchristian and cruel manner, and under circumstances that were harsh if not brutal. Wantonly did they wound those who love me, who have done no harm, and who deserve at least the treatment due those who are loving and loyal under circumstances so trying and sad.

"They have invaded, with their denunciation, the chamber of the sick, have pierced the hearts of children who have given the noblest proof of the noblest fortitude and affection; and they seize the first possible moment they have to do this. They could not but know that I was to be here to make this public utterance, and they have therefore so timed their action that they might prejudice those who would do me the favor to listen to my defense, to cause the wavering to decide against me, and to stop the ears of those whom they could influence. I appeal from this action of this ministerial body to Jesus of Nazareth, who is not a dead, but a living Savior, who passeth by, in the companionship of those for whom He died. I have a right to make this appeal, for, whatever I may be, or whatever I may have done, I am at least a sinner for whom He died. In his uplifted hands, as He presided over this body, they might have seen, if they had looked upon him, the wounds pierced for just such sinners as I; and the crown of thorns which he wore upon his brow was not to give domination to those who are called in His name, over secular matters pertaining to the government of the people.

"I have no personal controversy with these gentlemen. I have no criticisms to make upon the opinions they may express; but I do here and now, in the name of the crucified Master, impeach their action, and from the justice of this denunciation I appeal to that bar where all will be laid open, and where the judgment will be given, not to him who has done much, but to him to whom much is forgiven, and who, in love, giveth a cup of cold water to the humblest of the children of men.

"I pity him who wrote this harsh, cruel and unchristian decree. I pity those who united in this action, and from the bottom of my heart and as God is my judge I forgive them."

Dedication at Salt Lick.

Salt Lick is situated in Bath county in the valley of the Licking river, and on the line of the C. & O. railroad. Mountain peaks, rock-ribbed and pine clad, produce the most exquisite scenery to the North, South and East, and to the West the azure blue kisses the waving bluegrass. The valley lands are level and fertile, and the surrounding hills are rich in resources, the produce of which are unladen in the town of Salt Lick, making hers a prosperous people. There are no whisky shops to draw sustenance and to fire the depravity of man. Business moves along free from envy and jealousy, and when the Western shades cover the picturesque valley, business men, sons and daughters find pleasure in their homes. School-houses adorn the verdant plats and church steeples lift their spires heavenward. This is a model country town, and her citizens dwell together in unity. Sunday, the 6 inst., was a memorable day. It was the appointed time when the M. E. Church, a beautiful modern structure, was to be set apart for God's service. The ladies of the town and surrounding country, regardless of church lines, had busied themselves to make this a pleasant, happy day, and their efforts were not in vain. Baskets, almost without number, filled with the best the land could afford and houses open to guests, every one was glad to have been there.

Salt Lick, Ky., May 7, 1894.—(Special to the Advocate.)—The dedication of the new Methodist Episcopal church in Salt Lick, took place on yesterday (Sunday, May 6.) The dedicatory sermon was preached in a very able manner by Dr. A. J. Walsh, of Lexington, the Presiding Elder of the Lexington District of the M. E. Church. Revs. Cannon, Cantrell, Howe, May and Davis assisting. A large concourse was present, notwithstanding the threatening weather of the morning, the church being crowded to standing room; and hundreds being unable to even enter. Among the many people present were noticed friends from Lexington, Mt. Sterling, Owingsville, Morehead and Farmers. The church is a frame building 30x50 feet, situated on North Main street, and, according to the Trustees' accounts, cost (not included) $1,350, of this amount all had been collected and paid on the building except $450. Through the efforts of Dr. Walsh and the Trustees, the entire amount was subscribed, within a few minutes, and the church was dedicated free of debt at the evening service.

Too much praise cannot be given the people of Salt Lick for the prompt manner in which their subscriptions poured in, as the whole balance needed to pay the church debt was raised in not more than one half hour. To our outside friends, who generously donated, we are truly grateful and shall be glad to return the favor when the opportunity offers.

Revs. Cannon, Cantrell, Howes, May and Davis remain and will hold a protracted meeting in the new church for two weeks.

R. Krebs, who came here from Chattanooga, Tenn., with a stock of dry goods, clothing, etc., sold out last week to Mr. Tehreen, his brother-in-law, and a man by the name of Speiggl, for $2,630, cash. It turns out that Mr. Krebs had become involved and claims were pressing him hard. Refusing to pay accounts, attachments have been gotten out to the amount of about $4,000. The grounds for the attachments is that he disposed of his goods in order to defraud his creditors. Mr. Speiggl is a stranger here, and claims that he came here in answer to an advertisement of Mr. Krebs' in a New York paper. He further claims that he furnished the money that paid for the goods. Krebs' creditors claim the whole transaction a fraud. Krebs is the man who was sued in the Circuit Court for damages by J. Gordon. Gordon claiming he had damaged his business by false statements. Krebs has left the city, and when last seen was footing it on the Maysville pike in the direction of Sharpsburg.

"Doctoring" the Staff of Life.

Bread is said to be made by some bakers after this recipe: Some soap is dissolved in a little water; to this is added some oil, and the mixture, after being well whipped, is added to the flour. The crumb of the bread manufactured by this process is said to be lighter and more spongy than that made in the ordinary way.

District Meeting of the C. W. B. M.

The District Convention of the Christian Woman's Board of Missions for the counties of Harrison, Bourbon, Clark, Bath, Nicholas and Montgomery met at the Christian church in this city on Saturday.

As its name implies, this is a woman's organization, and the purpose of the district meeting is to awaken a greater interest in mission work and to extend a wider knowledge of the needs and accomplishments of those in the far distant heathen lands. The Convention was called to order by the District Manager, Mrs. Joel Berry, of Paris, and Mrs. Jacob Henry, in her proverbially happy manner, delivered an address of welcome, to which the District Manager gracefully responded. Papers were read, and they were every one of them able ones, by Mrs. Yancey of Cynthiana, Mrs. Keene, of Winchester, Mrs. James Richart of Owingsville, Mrs. James Berry of Moorefield, and Mrs. Wornall of Paris. We must not fail to mention a recitation handsomely delivered for the entertainment of the Convention by Miss Butler, of Illinois, who is visiting friends here.

The meeting was a most enjoyable one to the visiting delegates, the number of whom was about thirty, and was particularly so to the members of the local society, who express themselves as grateful to their visitors for all that was done to help them make the meeting the success all felt it was.

The music furnished by the choir of the church, assisted by some friends, performed no small part in rendering the day an enjoyable one.

It goes without the saying that the good women of the Christian church, were prepared to furnish their guests with a most appetizing dinner. We have seen these good ladies called on many times, but have never seen them fail to respond in a manner that made their guests feel exceedingly grateful to them.

Among the visitors was Mrs. Dr. McLin, Missionary to China, who was a most welcome and much honored guest of the local society.

Mrs. Keene, of Winchester, was elected District Manager, and the Convention adjourned to meet next year with the local society of the church at Cynthiana.

Catarrah in the Head

Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood, and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect and permanent cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of catarrah. Catarrah oftentimes leads to consumption. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla before it is too late.

Hood's Pills do not purge, pain or gripe, but act promptly, easily and efficiently. 25c.
